Quick question - is it ok if while answering a question I say something like, "This rule will protect young people in Florida, the same way similar kids are now Protected in Sweden, Finland etc...I applaud the state of Florida and hope many others will follow."

Also, is Florida the first to take this route in limiting medical interventions, as opposed to the legislative route? I haven't heard of another state doing this.

Thanks

So I'm fine with the group starting at 2:00 if anyone wants to start before I get on – I'm completely fine with that. That may be better so we can knock out introduction and begin some basic prep. I just can't join until 2:30.
